FAMILY HISTORY.

THE Surname of Hurry has been spelt at various times and in various books, Urre, Urry, Urray, Urrie and Ure. The crest of "Ure," a lion's paw erect and erased gules, motto, "Sans Tache," plate 126, crest 9, in "Fairbairn's crests"—Urrie, Urry and Hurry, the same BEING VERY CONCLUSIVE PROOF that these names have all a common origin. The better help to get at the origin of a name than a reference to the College of Arms in England, or the Lord Lyon's Office in Scotland, can be got from the pedigrees of persons claiming the right to use Armorial bearings, after Proofs are lodged and these pedigrees engrossed in the Lyon's Office. Heraldry is thus of immense benefit to those interested in family history.

From Nisbet's Heraldry, Vol. 2, under heading "Historical and Critical Remarks on Prynne's History," so far as concerns the submission and Fealty sworn by the fenerality of the Scot's Nation to Edward First, of England, in 1292, 1296, 1297, etc., commonly called the Ragman Roll.

Hugo De Urre—this seems to be the same name with that of Hurry or Urry, of which there was a family entitled, of Pitfichie, in Aberdeenshire, which has lasted a long while there, and had been very well allied to the best families in the North. General Hurry, that had been so long against the King, in the Parliament's service, and afterwards turned so eminently for the King and suffered the next day after the execution of the great Marquis of Montrose, was the last heir of the family. He had two daughters, heir heris. The one married to Archibald Lamond of that Ilk, and the other to Dr. John Hamilton, Minister of Leith and Bishop of Dunkeld at the Revolution (Bishop Hamilton, who married twice—Elizabeth Urray (so spelt in the Register) was his second wife. The Bishop died in 1697.

In Vol. 2 of Eminent Scotsmen, under heading "James Graham, Marquis of Montrose," will be found a sketch of General Hurry's military exploits. In it he is styled a brave soldier.

Pitfichie, of which General Hurry was designed, is in the Parish of Monymusk, Aberdeenshire.

Nisbet's Heraldry, Vol. 2, part 3, page 4, in Article on "Marks of Cadency," has this: "The House of Urre in the same province (Dauphiny in France) carried a bend charged with three stars."

In Sir James Balfour's Annals, Vol. 4, "Memorials of Church and State," under the Index to that and the preceding volumes, the name is spelt "Horrey," thus page 259, Vol. 3-24, January, 1645, Session I of the Scots Parliament: "'Sir Johne Horre' humbly petitions the Housse for a Passe." 27th February, 1645, Session I, Scots Parliament: "Colonel Horrey to be General Major of the Army—approved by the Housse."

Thursday, 23rd May, 1650, Session I, Scots Parliament: "The Committee of Prissioners show the Housse that they had sent Sir John Horrie, Captain Io Spotswoode, and Captain Afflecke, ther severall dittayes to them to be adwysed with."

Tuesday, 28th May, 1650, Session I: "Committee of Proces report anent Sir Johne Horrie read (he was taken at Kerbester Field). The report is approven by the Housse, and he sentenced guilty of Height Tresson and forfaulted and his head for his tresson ordained to be chopit off at the Crosse of Edinburghe to-morrow at 2 houres in the afternoone and the Magistrates of Edinburghe ordained to see this sentence put in executione."

Wednesday, 29th May, 1650, Session I: "This day at two o'clock in the afternoone conforme to the sentence of Parliament Sir Johne Horrie and Captain Io Spotswoode were executte at the Crosse of Edinburghe. Sir Johne Horrie was penitent and confessed that his grate and manyfold sinns against God had brought to that so publicke ane end. Johne Spotswoode deyed in a furey and rage and wold confesse nothing."

A different spelling of Hurry it will be observed is adopted in the Annals.

From the "Fasti" or "List of Ministers of the Church of Scotland," 1667: "Andrew Urie was Minister of Muiravonside—he was licensed 7th February, 1667, and ordained 30th July following. Mr. Urie was outed by the rabble and deserted his cure, 1689. He died in Edinburgh, 14th October, 1707, aged 71, leaving two daughters, Margaret, married Chas. Bell, W.S.I., and Anna, who married John Bethune, of Craigfoodie. The Communion Vessels of the Parish bear his name and the date '1676'." Possibly his crest may be on the cups.

1550. An Andrew Ure was Minister of Leuchars this year; he had been a conventional Brother of the Priory of St. Andrews before the change in religion.

Urry (or Hurry), John (1666-1715). Editor of Chance. Student of Christ Church, Oxford, B.A., 1686, a nonjuror, 1689. Tampered with Chaucer's text; his edition, however, was revised and published six years after his death, by others—1721.

Urray Parish, Presb. of Dingwall, from account of the Parish by Rev. John Downie, 1793 (old statistical account). "Seems to derive its name from its situation; the Church and burying ground lie on a large plain on the banks of the rapid river Orrin, near its conflux with the Common. It is probable that the UR-a or Urray—meaning the 'New Ford' has been given to the Parish in ancient times."

From Spalding Club Miscellany, Vol. V, page 164, under heading, "Extracts from the Burgh accounts of Aberdeen, 1644-45": "Item to Patrick Horrie" for furnishing and making of his clothes according to his compt., 10, lib. 7sh." Same authority under same heading, Vol. V, page 162: "Item to Robert Smith Post to go with letters to General Major Hurrie, then at Buckie, 2 lib, 8 sh."

At page 180 of same Vol. there is allusion made to some explanation of a discrepancy in the ages in which General Major Hurray's name is mentioned.

NOTE: It is worthy of note how varied is the spelling of the name—in mediaeval words were spelt pretty much according to sound. The practice is slightly puzzling to one engaged in the work of research nowadays. The writer of this has strictly adhered to the spelling given in the authorities from which he quotes.

From Douglas's Baronage of Scotland, page 53 (Number 57 by mistake in the book) under heading "Maxwell of Calderwood"—from the Chartulary of Paisley: "In a donation of William de Urry of the Lands of Fulton to the Monastery of Paisley Dominus Robertus De Maxwell, Dominus de Calderwood, is a witness, anno 1409."

From the book of Retours-Inquisitiones Generales Retour, No. 135, of date 17th May, 1603: "David Urie in Kingis-Inche was served Heir of Conquest to Jacobi Urie, his brother."

NOTE.—Where Kings Inch was situated is not stated.

In General Retours No. 2819, date 28th March, 1643: "Joannes Urie Haeres Thomas Urie Burgess of Glasgow, his Father."

In General Retours No. 7948, dated 24th February, 1698: "Margareta et Joanna Urreys, Haeredes, portionariæ Elizabethæ Urrey, relictæ quondam Joannis, Epis, Copi de Dunkeld Sororis Germanæ" (these have been daughters of Sir John Hurry—again note the spelling). Sir John had had three daughters and not two as in "Nisbet."

In General Retours No. 8637, is in the Index

Nominum, but the list of Retours ends with 8279—the names are given, these being Patrick Urie and Thomas Urie.

NOTE.—The Index has the name thus stated, “Urrey or Urie,” another Proof that all the varieties of spelling it owing to fashion of the times or caprice of the parties owning it.

H. Harrison, in “Surnames of the United Kingdom,” Vol. I, page 223, says that HURRY (A-Fr-Tent.) has various forms: Huré, Hurey, Hury, and Hare, and means “Shaggy-Headed.”

It is recorded in the Register of the Priors of Norwich, that in 1267 Sir Ralf Urri, of Deepham, Kent, gave to Nicholas, Prior of Norwich, and his convent, a piece of land at Wicklewood, in Norfolk, for “the good of his own and his father’s soul.” It appears also that Ralf Urri, Clerk, in 1362, was Senescal de Lenn, or Steward to the Bishop of Norwich at Lynn Regis, in Norfolk; and that in 1372 Richard Urri filled the same office.

Sir George Mackenzie, the Scottish Historian (who died in 1691), in a sort of Genealogy quoted by Nisbet, states that: “the first of the name came from England to Scotland towards the close of the thirteenth century, during the reign of Baliol, and was descended of the family of the Lord Eure in England, with us corruptly pronounced Urie." The pedigree of the Eure family gives Hugo d'Eure, who, in 1296, swore fealty to King Edward I, who is said to have given them the little town of Kathness (Caithness) for their valiant services, and Henry VIII honoured them with the title of Barons in this respect. Sir Hugo d'Eure descended from Eustace the Norman, whose two sons came over with William the Conqueror.

In Ludlow Parish Church is the monument of Dame Eure, wife of Lord Ralph Eure, the last Warden of the Marshes, who kept his court at Ludlow Castle. His arms are in the old Inn there. There appear to have been two Sir Williams, in Charles the Second's Army, one belonging to the Scotch branch and the other to the English, the latter apparently still spelling the name "Eure," ; he was killed at Marston Moor, in 1645, and his son Thomas at Newbury, in 1643. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries there flourished in the town of Great Yarmouth a family named Hurry. The Parish Registers extend back to the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and among the earliest entries the name of Hurry appears ; in 1580 William Hurry was married to Agnes Green, in 1597 another of the same name was married to Elizabeth Smythe, in 1644 Anne Hurry was married to Robert Steward, and Richard Hurry was married at the Parish Church, in 1596, to Ann Prymrose. There was a family of this name at South Repps, in Norfolk, on the 22nd of May, 1734. Thomas Hurry, of that place, was married to Anne Church, at Norwich Cathedral.

At an assembly of the corporation, held at Great Yarmouth, on the 10th of August, 1701, in the time of Gabriel Ward and Jacob Artis, Esqrs., bailiffs, Thomas Hurry was admitted a freeman of the borough of Great Yarmouth, by purchase ; from which it may be inferred that, not being free by birthright, he had probably come to reside in Great Yarmouth from some other place. In 1714 Thomas Hurry voted at a general election for the county of Norfolk, in favour of Sir Jacob Astley, Bart., of Melton Constable, and Thomas de Grey, Esq., of Merton, who were the Whig candidates.

Early in the eighteenth century, Thomas Hurry, his son, with some members of his family, established themselves at Great Yarmouth, as Hemp and Iron Merchants, and obtained extensive warehouses at the South-West corner of Queens Street, fronting West in the Quay, where the business was conducted under the firm of THOMAS HURRY & Co. for a long series of years. They were also ship agents, agents for Lloyd's, and Vice-Consuls for Prussia and other foreign powers. His descendants were extensively engaged in commerce in that town for nearly two centuries. The warehouse buildings were erected upon ground which had been within the precincts of the Franciscan Friars, otherwise called Friars Preachers, Friars Minor, or Grey Friars, who settled in Great Yarmouth circa 1226, and were suppressed in 1538.

The first printed Poll-book for parliamentary borough elections at Great Yarmouth, is that for the one which took place in 1754, when the candidates were the Hon. Sir Edward Walpole, K.B., and the Right Hon. Charles Townshend, on the part of the Whigs, and Richard Fuller, Esq., and William Browne, Esq. (two Yarmouth men), on the part of the Tories. At this election Thomas Hurry, Thomas Hurry, Jun., Gabriel Hurry, John Hurry, and Samuel Hurry voted for Townshend and Walpole, who were elected.

Sir Edward Walpole, second son of Sir Robert Walpole, the celebrated minister of George I and George II, sat for Great Yarmouth in several Parliaments. In 1767 he determined to retire from public life, and announced his decision in the following letter addressed to John Hurry, Esq.

PALL MALL,

LONDON,

24th August, 1767.

MY DEAR SIR,

You have been my staunch and fast friend for many, many years, and I have always valued you (not particularly for that, but for your integrity and worthiness) much more than perhaps you have believed.

I do assure you, there's not a man in Yarmouth, or indeed, anywhere else, that I have had at any time a greater esteem for, or more wish'd to be of use to, if it had been in my power. But in my person you all pitched upon a man of no consequence, that could only act an honest part, but never was of that ability in Parliament, that the service of such a town as Yarmouth requires ; I now propose to quit it, but shall always remember my old friends and be glad to see them.

You never come to London now, but your sons, who do, will always meet with that reception from me that they have a title to, and will find me just as glad to see them or to serve them, if in my power, as ever I was when their vote, interest, and favour were of consequence to me.

I am your obliged and affectionate humble servant,

ED. WALPOLE.

To JOHN HURRY, Esq.,

GREAT YARMOUTH.

Not content with their political exertions in Yarmouth, several members of the Hurry family purchased freeholds in Norwich, for the purpose of obtaining votes in that city, and at the contest in 1786, between the Hon. Henry Hobart, of Intwood, and Sir Thomas Beevor, Bart., of Hethel, in Norfolk, Thomas Hurry, Thomas Hurry, Jun., Samuel Hurry, Samuel Hurry, Jun., George Hurry, and William Hurry all voted for Sir Thomas Beevor. One great object of the Hurry family and their friends was to obtain a repeal of the Test and Corporation Acts.

In 1795, Thomas Hurry, Sen., Thomas Hurry, Jun., Samuel Hurry, William Hurry, Ives Hurry (then of London), James Hurry, William John Hurry, George Hurry, and Edmund Cobb Hurry voted for George Anson, Esq.

At an election in 1796, the Whig candidate was again strongly supported by the Hurry family, all of whom, viz., Thomas Hurry, Thomas Hurry, Jun., Samuel Hurry, William Hurry, William John Hurry, George Hurry, Edmund Cobb Hurry, Ives Hurry (of London), James Hurry, and John Hurry (then of Liverpool), voted for Sir John Jarvis, afterwards Earl St. Vincent.

At the general election in 1807, the Hurry votes were reduced to five, viz., James Hurry, William John Hurry, Thomas Hurry, James Hurry of London, and Nicholas Hurry, of Liverpool.

The Hurry family continued to give their strong support to the Whig candidates at the various elections until the year 1841, which was the last occasion on which the name of Hurry is recorded on a Yarmouth Poll-book.

In 1790 Messrs. Thomas, Samuel, and William Hurry

each received an elegant silver cup weighing 60 ounces, richly engraved with appropriate devices and suitable inscriptions, accompanied by the following letter :—

NORTH SHIELDS,

17th June, 1790.

SIRS,

The Ship Owners of this Port, associated for mutual insurance, having often experienced the good effects of that philanthropy by which you are so eminently distinguished (and particularly during and after that great storm which happened on the 31st of October, 1789), in your humane attention to the distresses of the unfortunate sufferers, to the preservation of the wrecked property, and to the prevention of that imposition too frequently practised on unfortunate seamen, and being anxious to express the high sense they entertain of such essential service, have directed us to request your acceptance of the Silver Cups which accompany this as a Testimonial of their esteem.

We are,

Your most obedient Servants,

J. POWDITCH,

HENRY SHADFORTH.

John Hurry, born in Great Yarmouth, in 1747, settled in Liverpool, and was for many years a prominent Merchant and Ship Owner of that Port. He resided at 53, Bold Street, Liverpool, the most fashionable street in that city, named after the family of "Bold," with whom the Hurrys were closely connected by marriage. Nicholas, his second son, was also a Liverpool Ship Owner and Merchant. In a Volume entitled "Journal of a Voyage to the Northern Whale Fishery," by William Scoresby, Jun., published in Edinburgh, in 1823, reference is made to an extensive channel which was named "HURRY'S INLET," after Nicholas Hurry, Managing-Owner of the ship "Baffin"; it lies on the East Coast of Greenland, near Scoresby's Sound, Cape Tobin, and Cape Brewster.

The Hurrys have ever been great lovers of the sea, travel, and adventure. Branches of the family have settled in all parts of the world, and to-day, their descendants are influential in America, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

Hurry Pedigree.

ENGLISH FAMILY.

OUR pedigree commences with THOMAS HURRY, of Great Yarmouth, in the county of Norfolk. He was admitted a freeman of that borough by purchase, 5th of August, 1701, and was a freeholder of that county, and as such voted at a general election for members of the House of Commons in 1714. He married and had issue—

1. ELIZABETH, born 19th of July, 1690.
2. MARY, born 7th of October, 1694.
3. THOMAS, born 2nd of July, 1696.

JAMES HURRY died at Liverpool, 25th of April, 1837, Patience, his wife died in March, 1829, aged 45 years.

Malgré le Tort.

P. 30. HOUGHTON.

The family of HOUGHTON are an old Lancashire medical family, practising in Liverpool, Prescott, and the Hundred of Wirral for upwards of two hundred years without a break. At the end of the eighteenth century the family turned to the legal profession.

P. 31. JAMES HURRY.

JAMES HURRY resided at No. 13, South Quay Street, Great Yarmouth, which he devised to his brother William John Hurry, to whom he also gave his furniture, plate, and ready money. He devised an estate at Rumburgh, in Suffolk, in trust for his niece Sarah, wife of William Travers Cox, M.D. He directed his estates at Fritton, Hemphall, Ludham, and Great Yarmouth, to be sold. He bequeathed £1,000 in trust for the Congregational Chapel, Middlegate Street, Great Yarmouth, and £200 to a charity called "The Muster Roll"; and after giving numerous legacies amounting to £9,000, he bequeathed the residue to his brother William John Hurry. His will is dated the 30th of January, 1841, and was proved in the Prerogative Court of the Archbishop of Canterbury, on the 14th of September, 1842.

Shortly before his death he gave a notable dinner to the Hon. George Anson, second son of Viscount Anson, and sixty other guests. James Hurry was a gentleman of the old school, and one of the last in Great Yarmouth to wear a "pigtail."

P. 32. SAMUEL LAFONE.

SAMUEL LAFONE'S two eldest sons (by his first wife), Samuel Fisher and Alexander Ross, were granted the concession of the Southern half of the Eastern Island of the main Falkland Islands Group, which is known as "Lafonia," where they settled, and off which the naval battle in the Great War was fought.

Samuel Lafone was of French extraction, both his grandfather and grandmother being French.

The family motto is "Fidus ut Olim."

P. 35. MAJOR ALEXANDER MALINS LAFONE, V.C.

Major ALEXANDER MALINS LAFONE, V.C., late 1st County of London (Middlesex Yeomanry). Killed in action in Palestine, 27th of October, 1917.

For most conspicuous bravery, leadership, and self sacrifice when holding a position for over seven hours against vastly superior enemy forces. All this time the enemy were shelling his position heavily, making it very difficult to see. In one attack, when the enemy cavalry charged his flank, he drove them back with heavy losses. In another charge they left fifteen casualties within twenty yards of his trench, one man, who reached the trench, being bayoneted by Major Lafone himself.

When all his men, with the exception of three, had been hit and the trench which he was holding was so full of wounded that it was difficult to move and fire, he ordered those who could walk to move to a trench slightly in the rear, and from his own position maintained a most heroic resistance. When finally surrounded and charged by the enemy, he stepped into the open and continued the fight until he was mortally wounded and fell unconscious.

His cheerfulness and courage were a splendid inspiration to his men, and by his leadership and devotion he was enabled to maintain his position, which he had been ordered to hold at all costs.

The above description is reproduced by kind permission of Miss Lillian Lafone, sister to the above Major Lafone.

P. 35. PALMER.

The PALMERS are an old Yarmouth family and have been for very many years close friends of the Hurrys. There is also a connection between the two families by the marriages of the two daughters of William Danby Palmer to the two sons of William and Sarah Hurry, which marriages have been previously shown.

The descendants of John Burton, and Nathaniel, two sons of the above William Danby Palmer, in many instances bear "Hurry" as a christian name.

William Hurry Palmer, a descendant of John Burton Palmer, is a prominent merchant in the town of Great Yarmouth.

Edward Ernest Palmer, J.P., brother of the late James Hurry Palmer, J.P., resides at South Dene Lodge, Great Yarmouth, and is head of the firm of "Palmer's Departmental Stores," the oldest business of its kind in Great Yarmouth, founded in 1837 by Garwood Burton Palmer, son of James Hurry Palmer, the Stamp Distributor.

Many members of the Palmer family have filled the office of Mayor of Great Yarmouth.

Palmer bear arms, or, two bars, gu., each charged with three trefoils vert, and in chief a lion pass. guard., ppr.; and for a crest a leopard guard. and regard., holding in his paws a branch of palm, with flames issuing from the nostrils and ears all ppr. Motto, "Palma virtute."

P. 37. SAMUEL HURRY.

Captain SAMUEL HURRY's ship, called the Pitt, was launched at Great Yarmouth, on the 15th of April, 1763, it was the largest vessel to be launched in Great Yarmouth for many years.

P. 39. SALISBURY.

The genealogists of the sixteenth century assign to the Cecils a descent from a "Sitsilt," who, in 1091, received lands in Wales from Robert Fitzhamon.

The pedigree is thence traced through the family of Sitsilt of Altyrennes Co. Hereford, to Richard Sitsilt, Lord of Altyrennes.

William Cecil, born in 1521, Baron Burghley, High Treasurer of England, a celebrated statesman in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and High Steward of the borough of Great Yarmouth, in 1588, had two sons, namely, Thomas, first Earl of Exeter (created 1605), and Robert, first Earl of Salisbury (created 1605).

James, the seventh Earl of Salisbury, was the first Marquis (created 1789). The fourth and present Marquis is eleventh in direct descent from William Cecil, Baron Burghley. Among his ancestors are four Lord Mayors of London through marriage.

"LOCAL CONNECTIONS.

"The death of Lord Salisbury has a special interest to Yarmouth inasmuch as he was connected with the town by marriage, and also by the official position which he held as High Steward of the Borough. His son, Lord William Cecil, was also a curate here at the time the Rev. William Donne was vicar, and had charge of the district of Cobholm. The late marchioness' father, Baron Alderson, was, we believe, born in Yarmouth, and was connected with the well-known family of the Hurrys, his mother, we believe, being the daughter of Mr. Samuel Hurry, a well-known merchant here, so that the local connections of the family with the town give a peculiar interest to the circumstances connected with the history of the deceased statesman. We believe Lord Salisbury was at one time as Lord Robert Cecil, chairman of the Great Eastern Railway Co. In nearly all the great events of his time the deceased statesman took a leading part, and it is only little more than a year since he availed himself of the opportunity afforded by the close of the war to retire from office."

P. 41. MILMAN.

FRANCIS MILMAN, son of the Rev. Francis Milman, by Sarah, his wife, having attained great eminence in the medical profession, was appointed physician to King George III, and created a Baronet, 28th of November, 1800. He married Frances, daughter and heir of William Hart, Esq., of Gloucestershire, and by her, besides Sir William, his successor, had Francis Miles Milman, a Major-General in the Army, and Henry Hart Milman, a distinguished scholar, poet, and historian, late Dean of St. Paul's, who died 24th of September, 1868.

Milman bears, Az., a snake nowed ppr., between three sinister gauntlets, arg., two and one.

P. 62. BLYTH.

BLYTH bears, Erm., three roebucks trippant gu., attired or, and for a crest a roebuck's head filleted. Granted in 1485, and ratified in 1566.

P. 64. OVERMANN.

FLORENTINE THEODORE, born in 1860 eldest son of Florentine Theodore Overmann, of Manchester, by his first wife, Mary Helen Higson, who died in 1864, married, in 1906, Emma Henrietta Behrens, formerly Brann. Mr. Overmann is a partner in the firm of Overmann & Co., Manchester.

P. 66. MILLINGTON-HERRMANN.

GEORGE MILLINGTON-HERRMANN has in his possession a baby's silver rattle, first given to Thomas Hurry, in 1719, it then passed to his son Thomas Hurry, in 1749, who died unmarried. He had apparently been on special friendly terms with his cousin Mary Susannah Tolmé, daughter of William Hurry, as this rattle was given, in 1826, to her grandson, George Hurry Millington, grandfather to George Millington-Herrmann, to whom it passed, and on to his son. This interesting rattle consequently bears the following engravings: T.H., 1719; T.H., 1749; G.H.M., 1826; G.M.H., 1884; and M.M.H., 1922.

Blyth.

A pocket-book also in the possession of George Millington-Herrmann, contains notes written by Mary Susannah Tolmé, among others is the following: "March 4th, 1828, dyed very suddenly Mr. Thomas Hurry one of my best and dearest friends. He left home at 4 o'clock and was a corpse at half-past five, eat a good dinner, and was in more than usual good spirits when he left home, aged 79."

The above Mr. George Millington-Herrmann resides in Hanover.

P. 71. POWELL.

POWELL bears, Per fesse nebuly, or, and gules, a lion rampant between three escutcheons, each charged with a sparrow-hawk, close all counter-changed. And for the crest, on a wreath of the colours, two arrows in saltire proper thereon a sparrow-hawk, close arg., holding in the beak, a sprig of oak, slipped and fructed vert.

HURRY.

It may be interesting to note that there were no less than twenty-two members of the Hurry family admitted to the freedom of the borough of Great Yarmouth, by birthright.

Hurry Pedigree.

AMERICAN BRANCH.

Hurry Pedigree.

AMERICAN BRANCH.

THE family of Hurry is represented in America by the descendants of SAMUEL HURRY, third son of John Hurry, of Liverpool, eldest son of John Hurry, of Great Yarmouth, who was the third son of Thomas Hurry of the same place, the eldest son of Thomas Hurry, with whom the pedigree commences.

He was born at his father's residence, 53, Bold Street, Liverpool, on the 24th of November, 1778. In 1795 he sailed in one of his father's ships for Philadelphia, and was placed by him in the mercantile house of Michlin and Griffith, of that city.

In later life Samuel Hurry took rank among the first American shipowners and merchants of his day, controlling a large European connection. He acted as an agent between the United States and the English Shipowners, in the adjustment of the claims of the latter for losses sustained during the war of 1812. His office was at 10, Wall Street, New York.

He married, on the 1st of October, 1798, Eliza Ann, eldest daughter of William Whiteside, of Philadelphia (and Betsy Whiteside, his wife), a Tea

Importer who, with his brother, Peter Whiteside, and Robert Morris, were jointly the originators of the America East India trade direct with the western hemisphere.

Mrs. Samuel Hurry was born in London, 2nd of June, 1781, she was of the family of Whiteside, of Poulton-le-Fylde, Lancashire, where the family had long been in a position of influence.

On one occasion they had the honour of receiving King George III, at their seat in Lancashire; and the silver tankard out of which His Majesty at that time drank, and which bore a "Lion Rampant," the family crest, came as an heirloom into Mrs. Hurry's possession.

Mrs. Samuel Hurry was a great grand-daughter of Dr. John Bamber, of Barking, Essex, who married, at St. Margaret's, Lothbury, London, 20th of October, 1698, Miss Mary Hill, of London. They had issue one daughter, who married a Whiteside of Poulton-le-Fylde. Their second son, William, married his cousin, Betsy Whiteside, and it was their daughter, Eliza Ann, who became Mrs. Samuel Hurry. Dr. John Bamber married secondly, Maria, by whom he had issue daughters, one of whom married Sir Crisp Gascoyne, Lord Mayor of London; their son, Bamber Gascoyne, married and had issue a daughter, Frances Mary, who, in 1821, married James Brownlow Cecil, second Marquis of Salisbury, and she became the mother of Robert Arthur Talbot

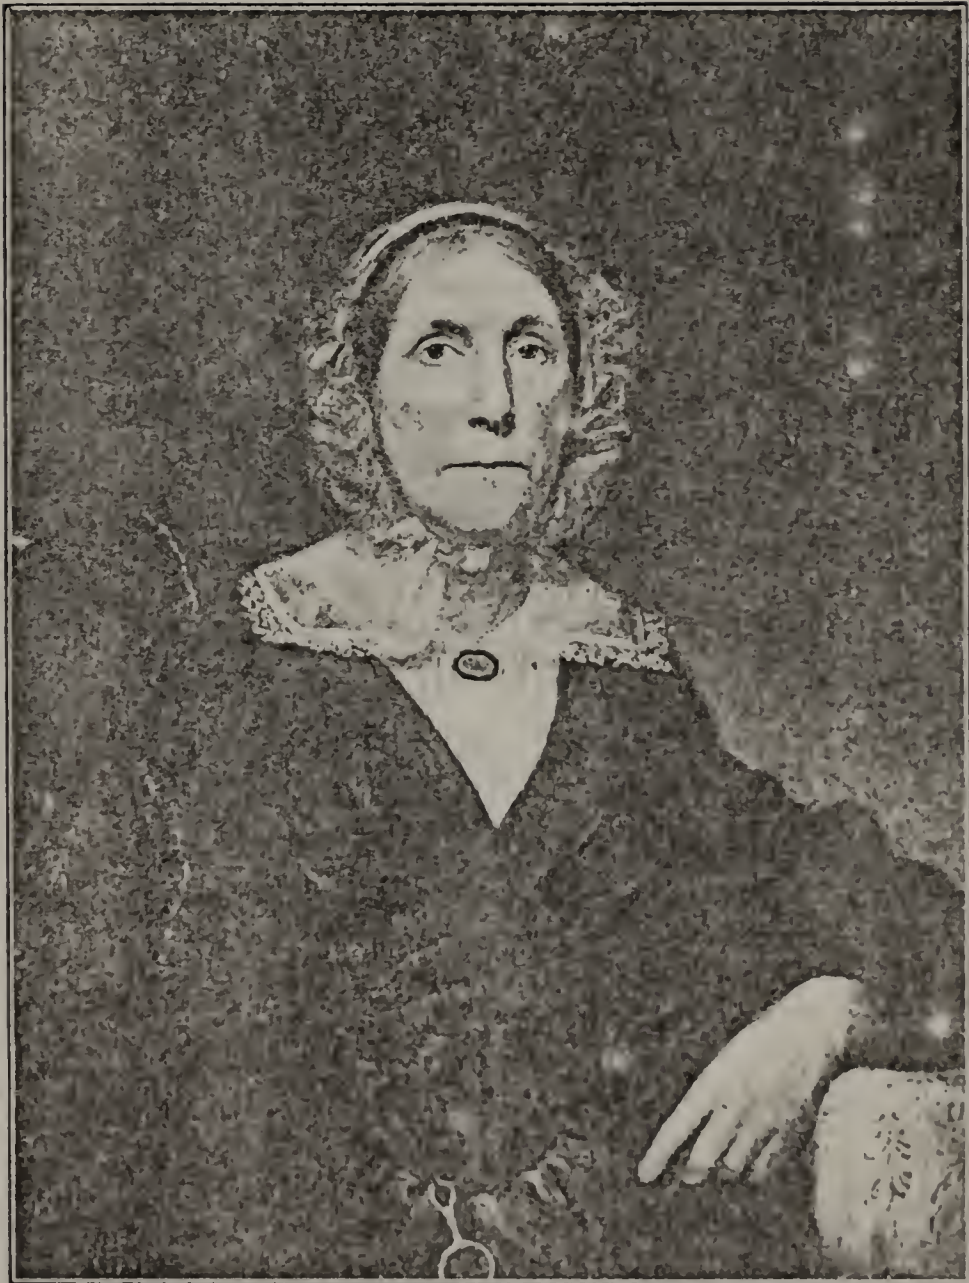

Gascoyne Cecil, third Marquis of Salisbury, who married (as shown in the English pedigree), Georgina Caroline Alderson, grand-daughter of Elizabeth Hurry, cousin to Samuel Hurry. The health of Mr. Samuel Hurry, for some time prior to his death, had become seriously impaired, and he took sea voyages to Europe and the West Indies, seeking its restoration. In the latter part of the year 1819, accompanied by his eldest son, he sailed from Philadelphia, for Great Britain, and landing in Ireland, and passing through that country, arrived at Liverpool with strength so rapidly failing that he had scarcely reached the home of his boyhood when his death occurred, on the 31st of January, 1820. He was buried in the family vault at Newington Chapel Yard, Renshaw Street, Liverpool. Mrs. Samuel Hurry died in New York, 8th of August, 1860, aged 79, and was buried from the residence of her son, William Hurry, 7, West Street, New York. She was endowed with a strikingly handsome and dignified person, and gifted with most pleasing conversational powers, retaining to the last those noble traits of character for which during her life she had been so conspicuous. They had issue—

V. WILLIAM (Whiteside), born at Philadelphia, 2nd of April, 1805 (baptized William only, by the Rev. Dr. Berrian), third son of Samuel Hurry and Eliza Ann (Whiteside), his wife, married, at New York, 10th of October, 1827, Adeline, second daughter of Samuel Hinman and Ann (Young), his wife. Mr. Hurry was a leading Architect in the City of New York, and by his professional ability contributed largely to the improvement and adornment of that City. In 1873 "Memorials of the Family of Hurry" were compiled at his request and cost, principally as regards the English family, by Charles John Palmer, F.S.A., of Great Yarmouth, and as respects the American branch, by Edmund Abdy Hurry, M.A., LL.B., of New York. William Hurry was the owner of the Bamber Estate, Ocean County, New Jersey, comprising 10,000 acres, his country seat.

Mrs. Hurry was sixth in direct descent from Edward Hinman, of Stratford, Conn., where the name appears as early as 1652. There is a family tradition that Edward Hinman had been one of the Sergeants-at-Arms to King Charles I. On the fall of the Monarchy, Hinman emigrated to New England, where his descendants have since remained. During the War of Independence the family were engaged in the Military and Naval Service of their country. A pedigree of this family was published by the late Royal Hinman, author of a work on the part taken by Connecticut in the War of Independence. Mr. Hurry died 2nd of August, 1893, from the result of an accident while on a visit to his Bamber Estate. Mrs. Hurry died 22nd of December, 1892, at their Town residence, 12, West 16th Street, New York. They are both buried in the family plot at Greenwood Cemetery. They had issue—

1. WILLIAM, born at New York, 1st of October, 1828, married, at Boston, 18th of November, 1853, Delphine, daughter of Temple Fay, Esq., of Boston, he died at the Bamber Estate, Ocean Co., New Jersey, 28th of May, 1900.

and was buried in the Cemetery at Toms River, New Jersey. They had issue—

1. EDWARD TEMPLE, born at New York, 18th of September, 1854, married at the residence of his grandfather, 12, West 16th Street, New York, 5th of September, 1888, Catherine Churchill, born at Hantsport, Nova Scotia, 6th of March, 1862, daughter of Captain Arthur Wellington Campbell. Mrs. Hurry is tenth in direct descent from the first Duke of Marlborough. From early childhood she displayed great talent as a Pianiste. At the age of nine she became Organist at a Church in Canada, later she pursued her musical studies in Germany, under some of the great Masters. Mr. and Mrs. Hurry reside at Putnam, Conn. They have no issue.

Extract from a letter from the Rev. Bardett Hlort, addressed to Joseph King, Esq., Hampstead.

"Mr. William Hurry is living, at the age of eighty-eight, at No. 12, West 16th Street, New York.

"He is in perfect physical condition, has the promise I judge of many good years yet. He walks about three miles a day, reads and writes without glasses, his hand perfectly steady, his teeth are good, digestion perfect. His wife is three years younger than himself. He has never taken wine, beer, liquors, or tobacco, has never played cards.

"Perhaps you have many fine old English gentlemen who will compare with him, but we call him a rare old gentleman in America."

September 21st, 1891.

P. 95. BRACKENRIDGE.

JOHN CROSBIE BRACKENRIDGE appears to have inherited the love of the sea from his Yarmouth ancestors for, on leaving school, he sailed twice round the world, and later became a pilot in the employ of the South American and Pacific Coast clipper ships. In 1885 he quitted the sea, and accepted a position on the Engineering staff of the Brooklyn Elevated Railway, in 1889 he was placed in charge of the construction of the Electric subways in Manhattan, his success in this position was the means of his frequent promotion. He held the position of chief engineer in charge of the construction of the Long Island Traction Coy., later merged with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Coy., of which he later became General Manager. In 1904 he was appointed Commissioner of Public Works for the borough of Brooklyn, and in 1906 constructing Engineer of the New York Central and Hudson River Railway Coys.

AUSTRALIAN BRANCH.

P. 119. GEORGE HURRY.

GEORGE HURRY, founder of the Australian branch of the Hurry family, carried on business at Vauls Wharf, London. His sons, Samuel and George, went to Victoria, Australia, in the sixties, and established a business as Customs Agents, in Market Street, Melbourne. Later they were joined by their father, who was also connected with the business which was carried on most successfully until the death of Samuel Hurry, in 1903. The firm is still carrying on business at the old premises, under the name of George Hurry. The present proprietors had been clerks to the old firm. The Hurry family resided in the suburbs of Melbourne.

Charles Tolmé was at one time in the service of an Australian Bank, but returned to London, where he died.

P. 120. HENRY HURRY.

HENRY HURRY served his articles to Messrs. Sharpe & Co., London Solicitors, and he was admitted a Solicitor from there. Later he went to Melbourne and subsequently became a partner with Richard Blundell, who was then a member of the firm of Blundell & Muttlebury. Eventually he purchased the practice of Mr. F. H. Boulton, at Kyneton. The firm is now known as H. Hurry, Son & Vance. The partners in this firm are Col. G. Hurry, Maurice Hurry, and H. S. Vance. Henry Hurry also had an office in Melbourne, which he relinquished owing to ill health. His first wife, Rachel Harriet Blundell, was a daughter of his first partner. His second wife, Mary Herring, was a sister of Archdeacon Herring, of "Beechworth," Victoria. The Herring family came from Audlem, in Cheshire.

P. 120. GEOFFREY HURRY.

Extract from War Records of Old Melburnians, published by Church of England Grammar School, Melbourne.

"Col. GEOFFREY HURRY, Solicitor, Kyneton. Joined Citizen Forces 1900, and at the outbreak of War was Captain and C.O., B. Company, 66th Infantry, at Kyneton. Subsequently, on the formation of 65th Infantry, he was appointed to command that Battalion at Footscray. In August, 1915, he was mobilised for active service and detailed to General Staff, at Victoria Barracks, serving with the Intelligence Section until March, 1916, when he joined the 38th Battalion A.I.F., which was then forming at Bendigo, under Lieutenant Colonel C. H. Davis (later C.B.E., D.S.O.). He left Australia as Junior Major and C.O., C Company of that Battalion, which was part of the 10th Brigade, and received its divisional training at Salisbury Plain, under General Sir John Monash, and proceeded to France in November, 1916, receiving its baptism in the Trenches at Armentieres. He was made second in command of the 38th Battalion, about April, 1917, and was in command of the Battalion at the Broodseinde Battle (awarded D.S.O.) and other operations and ultimately became C.O. in May, 1918, when he was promoted Lieutenant-Colonel, remaining in that position until after the armistice. In February, 1919, he was detached from the Battalion and appointed to command No. 3 Australian Base Depot Le Havre, through which most of the A.I.F. was evacuated from France, on their homeward journey."

Actions :—1917—Armentieres, 10th Brigade Big Raid, Pont Ballot ; Messines, Operations and Battle ; Ypres, Broodseinde and Passchendaele Battles. 1918—Ancre, Treux Wood, etc. ; Somme, Villiers Bretonneux operations ; Roisel, Ronssoy ; Hindenburg Line, Bony.

Decorations, etc. :—Mentioned in Despatches, D.S.O. (Broodseinde operations), V.D., 1920.

Col. Geoffrey Hurry was educated at the local school, and later at the Church of England Grammar School, Melbourne, the leading public school. He was articled to his father, and admitted a Solicitor in 1892. He was a Shire Councillor for twelve years, and President of the Shire of Kyneton for a term.

In 1922 the Prime Minister, the Hon. W. M. Hughes, retired from the representation of Bendigo Federal Electorate, the principal town of which is Bendigo. Col. Hurry was elected in his stead by a comfortable majority, from Labour and Country Party Candidates. Elections are held for the House of Representatives every three years. At the subsequent election last year he was again returned by a greatly increased majority, in a straight fight with the Labour man. There are about 40,000 electors in this Electorate.

P. 120. H. R. HURRY.

Extracts from War Records of Old Melburnians, published by Church of England Grammar School, Melbourne.

"H. R. HURRY, at outbreak of war, was on his way to Australia, as ship's Doctor, and at once returned to England on H.M.A.T. 'Borda,' also as ship's M.O. On his arrival in England he, in April, 1915, joined R.A.M.C., with rank of Lieutenant, and was subsequently promoted to Captain. He served as M.O. in various camps in England, notably the Shoreham Aerodrome where he had to be available twenty-four hours a day, in case of accidents, many of which were serious. He was also for some time at the Canterbury Camp for repatriated British Prisoners of War, and saw many bad cases. Later he was detailed to the main depôt of the Bedford Regiment, and also was in several air raids in London. He was demobilised in August, 1919, and returned to Australia in July, 1920.

Dr. H. R. Hurry was educated at the Church of England Grammar School, and Melbourne University. He took his Medical Degrees in England, where he married Elizabeth Ellen, daughter of Stephen and Lucy Adams, of Swynnerton, Staffordshire.

P. 120. MAURICE HURRY.

MAURICE HURRY was educated at Kyneton Grammar School, passing thence to Trinity College, Melbourne University, where he had a distinguished record both scholastic and athletic, especially in rowing, cricket, and tennis; he is now the leading lawn tennis player and one of the best golfers in his district. He was admitted a Solicitor in 1907.

P. 121. GEORGE HURRY.

Extract from War Records of Old Melburnians, published by Church of England Grammar School, Melbourne.

"GEORGE HURRY, who was killed in action on 18th October 1917, in France, was the younger son of Mr. H. Hurry. He was born in 1884, and entered the School, from Kyneton, in 1901. On leaving school, in 1902, he went into the service of the Bank of New South Wales, and was there when he enlisted in February, 1915. He sailed for the front in the following June, as a Driver in the Army Service Corps. He was training in Egypt for a time, and then was selected as a candidate for Officers' School, and proceeded to Balliol College, Oxford, reaching England in November, 1916. He transferred from the A.S.C. and obtained his commission on 28th March, 1917; he joined the 15th Battalion in France, on 21st April, 1917, and went through the fighting near Messines. He was promoted to Lieutenant on 16th September, 1917, and took part in the Passchendaele operations, in the last of which he was killed. At the time of his death he was in charge of a party detailed to carry wire to the front line, and was killed instantly by shell fire. His commanding officer wrote: 'I felt his death keenly, and his own platoon were much cut up, for they respected and loved him for his quiet, cheerful way under all circumstances. His work in the field has always been consistently good.' He was buried at Soda Factory, Zonnebeke."

George Hurry was educated at the Church of England Grammar School, Melbourne.
